IMAGES OF EROTICISM

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is a critical study of the relations between eroticism and forms of human expression, including that form of expression we have come to name “pornography.” The historical formation of the concept of “pornography,” including its relation to modernism/modernity, will be foundational for this course. Equally foundational will be those works that seek to simultaneously challenge and re-conceptualize the concept of pornography (e.g. In the Realm of the Senses). We will consider important theoretical texts (Foucault, Bataille, Williams, Kendrick, Nash, Preciado), historically censored films, recent hard-core art films (Shortbus, 9 Songs), alt porn (New Wave Hookers), 1970’s narrative porn (Sex World), and narrative films that deal with issues pertaining to the social construction of sex (Deep End). We will read significant recent works from feminist and trans theorists in the field of porn studies: Paul Preciado’s Pornotopia: An Essay on Playboys Architecture and Biopolitics, and Jennifer C. Nash’s The Black Body in Ecstasy: Reading Race, Reading Pornography. Linda Williams’ Screening Sex will serve as an anchoring text for the class. In addition to our work on the concept of pornography, we will think pornography as a genre of film (i.e. a form of expression that makes use of cinematic conventions). Genre films (which are probably the majority of the films that you see) are those that feature scenes you have seen so many times before, in so many different ways, that you expect to see them again and again depending on the type or genre of film (western, zombie, porn, action, etc.). Genre films don’t just employ cinematic conventions, they also teach us about social conventions, and pornography is no exception (this is particularly true with regard to constructions of gender and sexuality). Students will gain foundations for critically thinking about obscenity, pornography, and sexuality, as well as the ability to think about and analyze “hard-core” films as a genre. This will enable us to look at the social conventions surrounding sexuality and gender expressed in these works. Students will learn to think critically about various aspects of pornography, censorship, obscenity, sexuality, desire, gender, feminism, gay and lesbian sexuality, sadomasochism, and other subjects in a cross-cultural and comparative framework. Throughout this course we will endeavor to think our relation to these subjects in the context of the historical present. Please be aware that my courses typically build over time. If you do not read the assigned readings, if you don’t take notes, if you are not otherwise engaged with what we are covering, you will likely do poorly in the class. While we are doing some really cool things in this course, this is still a challenging class. Please don’t take it if you have no interest in doing this work. Above all, we are not watching films to get people “off” but to analyze them critically. Many of the films we will watch in class will be graphic and sexually explicit, including “hard core” images of sexual acts. Some of the films we will watch have been previously banned and/or heavily censored. The social reaction against these films and the social taboos associated with them will form a part of our critical study. While we will all have strong reactions to some of these films, we will endeavor in this class to think critically—beyond the level of mere reaction. It is not just that some of these films shock us that is important to our study, but what that shock is meant to do (critically). In other words, how they can make us think.

Prerequisites: ENG 114 or consent of instructor.

ASSIGNMENTS

Students are responsible for completing all the assigned course work. In class students are expected to participate in course discussions. Online students should act as though the course is a Monday / Wednesday course (even if they are doing their work at other times) in order to follow a basic structure and complete assignments in a timely manner. Online students need to submit their notes for the assigned films we will be watching (check the schedule) within 24 hours of the end of each Monday/Wednesday in class period. You should definitely post any questions in the forums. This is to help online students succeed fully in the course. Students are expected to be prepared for each class session. This means you have done the assigned reading for each day (and for online students any additional activities). In class students should always bring the assigned reading material (for each particular day) to class. Always take notes, including on all the films. My lectures, comments, and rants constitute an important “text” for the course. (These will be posted online at the end of each class session.) Be aware that my style is casual and approachable—this should not detract from the seriousness of the work we do together (this style of presentation is meant to make it easier for you to grasp the material). There will be 3 “formal” papers required (following the requirements for segment III and/or UD-C). There will be an initial writing assignment for a 2-page paper, a second 2-page paper, and a final 6-page paper in length (all typed and double spaced). There will be a handout on the essay assignments before each essay is due. Each essay must contain the required pages of formal college level writing. Your essays must demonstrate mastery of the reading material and course lectures for the assignments (your grade will be based on this). All essays must be critical. No grade will be awarded for non-critical writing. No rewrites of written work. No late papers accepted. Plagiarism in any of the course assignments, in any form, will be dealt with harshly and will be forwarded to the Dean’s Office for appropriate action. Plagiarism on any assignment will also result in a grade of F for the assignment. (Please note that Wikipedia is NOT a critical source and cannot be used for college writing. The same is true of IMDB.) No incomplete grades will be given. A final exam will also be required. The final exam for synchronous students will take place the last 20 minutes of the final class session. It will consist of ten questions and test primarily whether students have done the required readings. If you do not read the course material, you will fail the final exam. The asynchronous final exam will be comparable to the synchronous exam but will be a different exam, and will be due online.

Warning: This is a difficult and challenging course. If you do not do the course readings, you will be completely lost. The biggest mistake that students make on the essay assignments is to not actually read the assignment and/or fully follow the instructions or fully answer the questions. Additionally, if your paper does not demonstrate that you’ve read the assigned books, you will be graded down significantly and may not receive a passing grade. This syllabus is part of the course materials and your road map to the class and your learning. You are provided with a copy of the syllabus at the beginning of the semester and are expected to know the information contained within it the same way you are expected to know the information taught in the course.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Identify, distinguish and appraise the ways in which different cultures at different moments of their histories and different levels of the same culture represent, in both verbal and visual modes, the search for, the experience of and the consequences of sexual pleasure.

2. Master the techniques used for analyzing the representation of eroticism in both verbal and visual modes of cultural production. Master skills necessary for literary and art historical analysis.

3. Identify and recognize the relationships between a variety of historical, psychological, cultural and economic contexts and the works of erotic art which are produced in these contexts.

4. Investigate the relationship between two different modes of cultural expression-the verbal and the visual—and their advantages and disadvantages as means of representing eroticism.

5. Master the writing skills necessary to write analytical papers comparing erotic works of different forms and from different cultures.

6. Analyze the ways in which different ethnicity, social and economic status, cultural traditions and gender choice give rise to different notions of what constitutes the erotic and how best to represent that in art, music, and literature.

SEGMENT THREE WRITING REQUIREMENT
To meet the segment III writing requirement, you will be required to write 10 pages of writing. These papers are “formal” and will be read and graded by the professor. You will be expected to argue coherently, to support your arguments with detailed examples from the works analyzed, to edit your papers for spelling, grammar punctuation and agreement, and to meet recognized standards for notes and bibliography when relevant. All of the above will be taken into account in the grading of these assignments. This course satisfies part of the General Education, Segment III requirement. Ten pages of formal critical writing, which will be graded by the professor for style and content, will be required (see below).

STATEMENT ON DISABILITIES
Students with disabilities who need reasonable accommodations are encouraged to contact the instructor. WEEK EIGHT | FILM SCREENING WAKEFIELD POOLE'S BIJOU | 2-PAGE PAPER ON BIJOU DUE VIA TURNITIN @ 11:55PM (OCT 11TH)

   - Susanna Paasonen, "Between meaning and mattering: on affect and porn studies" (pdf below)
WATCH

- Film screening – Bijou (1973) (the film is approx. 70 minutes long).

NOTE: IN ORDER TO DO TODAY’S CLASS ASSIGNMENT YOU MUST DO THE FOLLOWING WORK IN THE CORRECT ORDER. TRUST ME, I THINK YOU WILL ENJOY THIS EXERCISE.

1. Watch Bijou at home. Watch the film very carefully. Do not be distracted by anything else while you are watching it. Pat attention to the visual language used in the film.

- What is going on?
- What do you see?
- What does any of this mean?
- How or what do you feel as you watch this?

Take careful notes about your experience of the film. You can simply describe what you are seeing, what you are thinking, what you are feeling as you watch the film. There is no right or wrong way for you to take such notes. Summarize your experience of the film in a one page, typed, double spaced paper.

2. AFTER watching the film, watch the director’s commentary on Bijou. You can also just listen to it. Take careful notes on Poole’s commentary. Think about the following:

- Why was the film shot this way?
- What about the form and the technical aspects of the film?
- How Is this different from what you imagined?
- Take note of anything you think is important.

Write a one page, critical, analysis of the film based on the information in the commentary, but also analyzing the difference between what you were thinking as you watched the film (which is perfectly valid) and the artifice at work in the creation of this form.

What does this teach you about the experience of watching any film, including possibly even a hard-core film? What did it teach you about the artifice of this film (how it was made)? Include a quote from today’s assigned reading in your analysis.

3. Combine both pages of writing to complete your second paper assignment.

DO NOT WATCH THE COMMENTARY UNTIL YOU HAVE WATCHED AND WRITTEN ABOUT THE FILM (Note: The Commentary Will Be Posted at 9 am)

THERE IS NO ONLINE FORUM TODAY

YOU DO NOT HAVE TO POST ANY FILM NOTES TODAY
WEEK NINE | DEEP END (OCT 18TH)

The class discussion was cut off because we ran long, so I came to my office after class and recorded myself giving this lecture for your use in reading and interpreting the film. The first 5 minutes or so of the lecture goes over the work we did on Kendrick and the history of pornography.) Final Exam due by 11:55 PM via TurnItIn (DO NOT BE LATE!!)
One of the great lost masterpieces of Japanese animation, never before officially released in the U.S., BELLADONNA OF SADNESS unfolds as a series of spectacular still watercolor paintings that bleed and twist together. An innocent young woman, Jeanne is violently raped by the local lord on her wedding night. To take revenge, she makes a pact with the Devil who transforms her into a black-robed vision of madness and desire. One of the great lost masterpieces of Japanese animation, never before officially released in the U.S., BELLADONNA OF SADNESS unfolds as a series of spectacular still watercolor paintings that bleed and twist together. An innocent young woman, Jeanne is violently raped by the local lord on her wedding night. The film is a piece of erotica wrapped in a flimsy proto-Marxist-feminist yarn— it closes with Eugène Delacroix’s Liberty Leading the People and the absurd subtitle “...at the head of the Bastille stood the women...” and our protagonist never enjoys a single instance of truly consensual sex. Though I’m loathe to wade too far into the potential Freudian or tribal waters Ditko’s approach implies, it touches upon how crucial visual parity is in comics and animation: “simple” or “cartoony” drawings function as the equivalent of short, carefully constructed sentences intended to express meaning efficiently, not indicate an intended audience. Yet the visual experience of Belladonna of Sadness is truly unique, with watercolor textures and techniques that simply don’t appear in narrative animated films.
