MI 730. BIBLICAL THEOLOGY OF MISSION

DESCRIPTION

A study of principal texts in the Old and New Testaments dealing with mission, evangelism, discipling and renewal, with attention to relevant scholarly debate regarding their significance. 3 hours.

OBJECTIVES

1. To study Scripture so that mission is based primarily in God’s self-revelation.
2. To appreciate the whole biblical canon as significant for a biblical theology of mission.
3. To discern from Scripture both theological truths and practical models for mission.
4. To develop a biblical hermeneutic for cross-cultural mission.
5. To better understand the church as a missionary community.
6. To demonstrate the value of inductive study of Scripture for mission, evangelism, and discipling.

COURSE METHOD

Direct study of Scripture will be the primary focus of the course. This will be supplemented by assigned reading. Class sessions will be devoted mostly to the study of particular biblical passages, plus discussion of readings and some lecture material.

We will follow the schedule indicated below. Normally there will be a break from about 9:00 to 9:15.

TEXTS

The Bible. NRSV, NIV, or TNIV preferred.

RECOMMENDED RESOURCES

Kingdom, Church, and World, by Howard A. Snyder. Wipf & Stock, 2002.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1. Participation in all class sessions, including taking an active, informed part in discussion.

2. Completion of readings and written assignments, as listed in the Class Schedule. For each class session, read first the listed Scriptures, then the assigned secondary reading. Note that there are three short written assignments, as indicated in the schedule.

3. A book report comparing and contrasting the views and hermeneutical approach and understanding of mission of any two of the following books. Due April 8.

H. D. Beeby, Canon and Mission
Ion Bria, ed., Go Forth in Peace: Orthodox Perspectives on Mission
Francis M. DuBose, God Who Sends
Donald Senior and Carroll Stuhlmueller, The Biblical Foundations for Mission
E. Stanley Jones, Is the Kingdom of God Realism?
Gerard Kelly, Shepherd’s Bush to King’s Cross
Köstchenberger and O’Brien, Salvation to the Ends of the Earth
Günter Krallmann, Mentoring for Mission
C. René Padilla, Mission Between the Times
Clark C. Pinnock, A Wideness in God’s Mercy or Most Moved Mover
Senior and Stuhlmueller, The Biblical Foundations for Mission
Dan Sheffield, ed., A Theology of Mission for Free Methodist Missions
Wilbert Shenk, ed., The Transfiguration of Mission
Howard A. Snyder, Liberating the Church: The Ecology of Church and Kingdom
Snyder & Runyon, Decoding the Church: Mapping the DNA of Christ’s Body
Gailyn van Rheenen, Missions: Biblical Foundations and Contemporary Strategies
John Howard Yoder, For the Nations

4. A research paper delineating your own biblical theology of mission (20-30 pages). This should be based primarily on your own study of Scripture, though you may use secondary sources as relevant. Scripture references should be given in-text; for secondary works, use reference notes and bibliography.

Suggested methodologies: Trace a particular theme, or set of themes, through Scripture; or examine the theology of mission in up to four biblical books (including at least one O.T. book).

Some questions you may want to consider as you develop your paper: What key texts and/or hermeneutical approach will I use? What is God’s intent for people, the nations (or culture), and the creation? How are we to understand the central significance of God’s revelation through Jesus Christ? What is the role of the Holy Spirit in mission? In what sense is the church a missionary community? (You do not need to respond specifically to these questions, but such questions should inform the development of the biblical basis for your paper.)

The research paper is due May 13 but may be submitted earlier.

5. A take-home final exam consisting of three essay questions covering material studied during the course. The exam will be given out during the final class session and will be due in the ESJ School Office by 9:00 a.m. on Thursday, May 20.

GUIDELINES FOR RESEARCH PAPER

1. You may use either the anthropological style (recommended by the ESJ School) or the Chicago/Turabian style, but be consistent. The paper must be computer-printed, and should include appropriate documentation of sources cited or consulted. (See “Academic Writing in the ESJ School,” available as a hand-out from the ESJ School Office.)

2. Attach a title page giving the paper’s title, your name and SPO number (or off-campus address), course name and number, professor’s name, and date. Staple in upper left-hand corner. Please do not use a cover or binder. (I may later request a second clean copy of your paper for my files.)

3. The paper should be at least 20 pages, and not more than 30. The grade will depend on the content, development of the argument, and evidence of adequate biblical research, not length.

4. The paper should contain no spelling errors. Use a spell-checker.

5. Please avoid these common mistakes:
   Improper or incomplete footnote/endnote style or bibliographic entry style
Improperly placed (for U.S. English) quotation marks:

Question marks, exclamation points, and semicolons are placed outside the quoted material unless they are part of the quotation. In blocked (indented) quotations of more than four lines, quotation marks at beginning and end of the quotation are unnecessary.

Improper use of its and it’s.
its is a possessive, meaning “belonging to it.”
it’s is a contraction, meaning “it is.”

Footnote reference numbers (if used) placed before a period or comma.

6. Students for whom English is not their natural language may want to get editorial assistance. I will evaluate only the final product. Correct English tends to have a favorable influence on grade.

ATTENDANCE POLICY: See the current seminary Catalog, p. 24.

EVALUATION
In grading, the course components will be weighted approximately as follows:

- Class participation, including input from readings 25%
- Short written assignments (3) 15%
- Book report 15%
- Final paper 25%
- Final exam 20%

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Sheffield, Dan, ed. A Theology of Mission for Free Methodist World Missions. [Dept. of World Missions, Free Methodist Church of North America, 2003.]

The Theology Mission was birthed out of a growing hunger among people who desired to gain, retain, or prepare for theological education. We understand that often there are barriers to attending traditional Bible College. The Theology Mission is a ministry of Mission Church. Charles completed a B.A. Biblical & Theological Studies, Regent University and a Master of Biblical Studies, Virginia Beach Theological Seminary and isâ€¦ Charles Shannon serves as the Lead Pastor of The Mission Church, a developing church plant in Norfolk, VA and The Director of The Theology Mission. Charles completed a B.A. Biblical & Theological Studies, Regent University and a Master of Biblical Studies, Virginia Beach Theological Seminary and isâ€¦
The Biblical witness, from which this theology of mission is derived, is likewise diverse in the way it describes mission. In light of humanity's rebellion against God, the Old Testament tells the story of God promising to bless the world through a single family. As the family grew it fell into slavery from which God rescued them, demonstrating that he alone is God. \cite{Snyder2005MI7B, title={MI 730 Biblical Theology of Mission}, author={Howard Austin Snyder}, year={2005} }. Strauss, Timothy C. Tennent. Was Jesus in the days of His flesh conscious of His racial significance and of a universal mission? Did He have a universal horizon, a wider outlook than to restore Judaism? Christianity would answer the last questions in the affirmative, seeing that present-day Christianity is substantially made up of peoples from the nations, so the universality of Christ is taken for granted. However, considerable debate has revolved around this point. Well does Dr. Samuel Zwemer summarize four historic views: The first is the extreme view of Hegel, Tolstoi and others that Jesus was anti-Semitic and conscio
