Books ordered for the course:

We have ordered The Film Noir Reader (listed below as FNR 1). It is the first of four volumes of essays (the other three are listed below as FNR 2, etc.). We have not ordered the other three volumes (the assigned essays from them are available on Chalk). In addition, we have ordered the BFI books on Gun Crazy and Detour. The three books that have been ordered for the course can all be purchased at the Seminary Coop Bookstore.

A good collection that is unfortunately out of print, so we could not order it, is the Movie Book of Film Noir (listed below as MFBN). You may want to buy a copy, if you can find one! The assigned articles from it will also be posted on Chalk.
Other readings:

All other readings are posted on the Chalk site for this course. You can find them by following the author and title in the links; full bibliographical information is not given. NOTE the readings are available under “External Links” on the Chalk site, NOT through the library reserve system. If you are not registered for the course, but have been given permission to audit, then speak with Prof. Pippin about being added to the list of permitted users of the Chalk site.

II. General Background Reading for the Course

Most of the assigned weekly readings will be about the film under discussion during that week of the course. The readings listed immediately below are not about specific films. They are background readings, raising general issues about film and philosophy, the medium of film itself, particular issues in criticism and interpretation unique to film, considerations of genre (an especially contested issue for film noir), or, finally, about some of the larger philosophical issues under examination in the course, especially, about the nature of action and the ascription of moral responsibility.

The following is a list of these general background readings that will be referred to in class and are available on the Chalk site in External Links.

1. Andé Bazin, “The Western, or the American Film par excellence”

7. Film Noir

This album, sharing the same name as a cinematic genre, is driven by a mood of pessimism and menace. While working on this album, we decided to explore even more disturbing and uncomfortable topics. Alcoholism, drugs, physical and psychological abuse, manipulation—it is all a part of our everyday life.

Limited edition of Autism - Film Noir shirt.

Includes unlimited streaming of Film Noir via the free Bandcamp app, plus high-quality download in MP3, FLAC and more. Sold Out.

12" Vinyl. Record/Vinyl + Digital Album.

Vynil version of our newest album "Film Noir". Looking at several film noirs—including close readings of three classics of the genre, Fritz Lang’s Scarlet Street, Orson Welles’s The Lady from Shanghai, and Jacques Tourneur’s Out of the Past—Pippin reveals the ways in which these works explore the declining credibility of individuals as causal centers of agency, and how we live with the acknowledgment of such limitations.

The crime melodramas of the 1940s known now as film noir shared many formal and thematic elements, from unusual camera angles and lighting to moral ambiguity and femmes fatales. In this book Robert Pippin argues that many of these films also raise distinctly philosophical questions.
